

Meeting VII – (Con)Testo: Perspectives on Literature in the FL Classroom

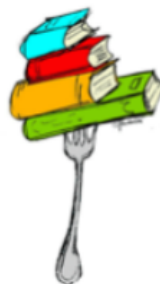

Teaching Italian: A Symposium/Workshop for Instructional Materials

Instructors and teachers participating in this annual symposium will be engaged in both methodological discussions and hands-on design to create pedagogically sound instructional materials that effectively incorporate literature into their units, lessons, activities, for use in curricula.

- Review new tools and techniques available for teaching Italian language and culture through various literary texts
- Tailor an approach to teaching with novels, short stories, poetry, plays, and more, that will develop students' language and cultural proficiency and critical thinking skills
- Acquire/refine your technical know-how for creating communicative activities for immediate classroom use

7

Professional Development
Credit Hours will be awarded

REGISTRATION FEE:
(includes Breakfast,
Luncheon, and Parking)

$50

$25

(Graduate students /
Prospective teachers of Italian)

TO REGISTER OR QUESTIONS
Please contact
Mary Ann Re, Coccia Director
973.655.4038
rem@mail.montclair.edu

Friday November 14, 2014

8:30 a.m. – 4 p.m.

University Hall

7th Floor Conference Center & Lecture Halls

SPONSORED BY

The Coccia Institute for the Italian Experience in America

The Department of Spanish and Italian

The Inserra Chair in Italian and Italian American Studies

Please join our experienced and dynamic specialists in Instructional Methodology in Foreign Language

Elvira
DiFabio
Harvard University

Nicoletta
Marini-Maio
Dickinson
College

Mirtilli Morgana
Studio
Arcobaleno

Anna Rein
Bowdoin
College

Colleen Ryan
Indiana University

2014 Enza Antenos