

Wintersession in Rome

Course Description

This intensive three-week course is a full immersion experience in Italy. It consists of grammar review, the reading of books and newspapers, discussions on current events, and compositions on cultural topics. The course includes a rich program of guest speakers and film screenings. Students also explore the historical and artistic sites of the city, and work on a final thematic project.

Fontana di Trevi, Roma

Costs

$4,000 Includes:

- Round-trip flight Boston/Rome
- Airport transfers
- Accommodation at Hotel Columbia
- Instruction
- Partial food allowance
- Partial cultural allowance

Complesso del Vittoriano, Roma

Un gelato da Giolitti

with Professor Flavia Laviosa
Italian Studies 202
January 6-24, 2019

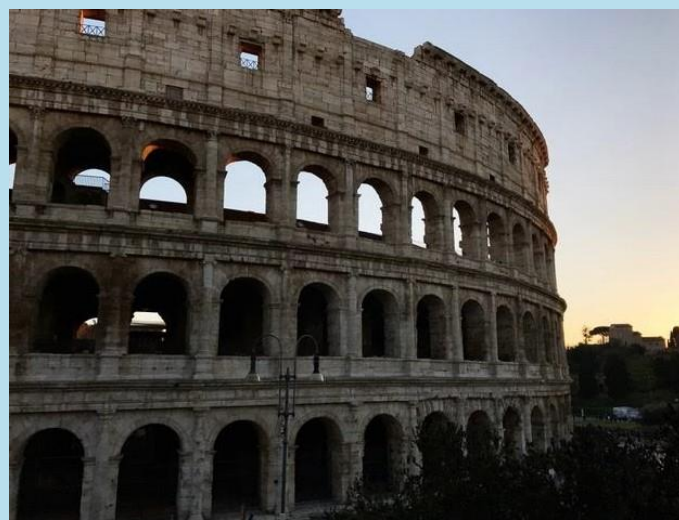

Studentesse alla Fontana di Trevi
Prerequisites and Credits

3 semesters of Italian language or permission of the instructor.
Credit unit: 1.0 (or equivalent)

Classes meet:

M-F, 9:00am-12:30pm

Colosseo, Roma

Traveling

From Rome students can easily travel to other Italian cities in their spare time.

Duomo, Firenze

The program is open to students from other universities.

For more information contact:
Flavia Laviosa
flaviosa@wellesley.edu

Student Feedback

"This course has not only been challenging and rigorous, but also deeply rewarding and exciting. It allows you to learn the language with great intimacy and deft while exploring the heart of the land it comes from. By taking this holistic approach, I gained a new respect and adoration for Italian and can honestly and strongly say this course has improved my Italian like no other experience has or could."

- Empress Helwig '19

Piazza Navona, Roma

"Winter session in Rome gave me wonderful opportunities to experience Italian culture everyday both in and out of class. It also opened a whole new world to possible opportunities both at Wellesley and beyond in terms of sparking an interest in what I would like to consider after completing my education at Wellesley. It was not difficult to fall in love with Rome with its incredible places and warm people ready to welcome you!"

- Sonia Hupalo '19, Davis Scholar

Piazza San Marco, Venezia

"The Wellesley College Winter Session in Rome provided a wonderful opportunity to study both Italian language and culture in Italy.

Throughout the course, we discussed relevant grammatical and cultural topics of interest while also exploring landmarks in Rome. I completed the course with greater confidence in both my spoken and written Italian, and I would recommend the program to any students who wish to improve their Italian."

- Julia Strauss, Harvard College '19